U.S. Army And JDC Print New Talmud

"The cultural treasures destroyed by the Nazis and the books which they burned can never be replaced, any more than our 5,000,000 dead martyrs can be restored to us. But the printing of this new edition of the Talmud in Germany represents a small measure of moral restitution to the Jewish people for all we have lost."

The speaker was Rabbi Solomon Shapiro, reporting Joint Distribution Committee international headquarters, 270 Madison Avenue, New York, after three years of distinguished service as JDC Religious Director for Germany and Austria.

"Through this printing a full cycle has been completed—this is the first Hebrew religious work to be printed in Germany since Hitler came to power," Rabbi Shapiro stated.

As he spoke, the young rabbi gently opened a copy of the "Tractate on the Sabbath," the first volume of the "Talmud of the Shearith Hapletah" ("Surviving Remnant") to come from the presses in Heidelberg, Germany, in an operation undertaken jointly by the United States Army and the Joint Distribution Committee, major American agency aiding distressed Jews abroad. JDC funds used in the printing were received from the $280,000,000 campaign of the United Jewish Appeal.

"When you pick up this Talmud," the rabbi declared, "you hold a bit of history in your hands. Copies of this Talmud are to be sent to all rabbis who were ever in Germany, and to synagogues and religious institutions in Europe whose members were persecuted by war and persecution."

Everywhere in the world, they will come to treasure this Talmud as a reminder of one of the most tragic periods in all Jewish history, and of the incredible, almost miraculous revival that is beginning to follow out of it.

"The new Talmud," Rabbi Shapiro said, "is the result of a plea for its publication approved in 1947 by General Joseph T. McNarney, then U. S. Military Governor of Germany. The plea was made by the combined rabbinate of the DP areas, led by Rabbi Samuel Abba Snelg, DP Chief Rabbi of Germany, and formerly a distinguished rabbi of Lithuania. The plan for the Talmud's publication had the endorsement and active support of Rabbi Philip Bernstein, of Rochester, who was General McNarney's advisor on Jewish Affairs."

"The act of the United States Army in authorizing the publication of the Talmud," Rabbi Shapiro stated, "deserves highest praise and is in full conformity with the great democratic tradition of religious freedom in the United States. The Army not only

Allow Farm School Of Rabbis To Expand

After a year of discussion the Yeshiva Farm Settlement, a rabbinical seminary that was operated in Czechoslovakia before the war, and New Castle town officials are in complete accord concerning operation of the school on the former Robert S. Brewster estate near Mount Kisco, William T. Gallagher, counsel for Yeshiva, said at White Plains, N.Y.

The attorney added that financial problems of the school were being eased by an $85,000 gift. Yeshiva bought the 250-acre estate last year for $100,000, paying $15,000 in cash and the balance by a mortgage now canceled by the donation.

Under a new decision of the New Castle Zoning Board of Appeals, Mr. Gallagher said, the school is permitted to provide adequate religious and farming instruction without facing threats of summary revocation of its occupancy permit. Some residents had called a prior decision of the board "un-American and preposterous." The school said the restrictions caused apprehension that was curbing voluntary contributions of funds.

Praises Anti-Bias Program In Plant

Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, announced in New York that a time-week experiment in anti-bias education and racial understanding is being conducted at the Corbin Corporation plant at Perth Amboy, N.J., will be extended to industries and plants elsewhere.

The program, sponsored jointly by the National Conference and the corporation, consisted of weekly seminars from May 11 to July 6 during which twenty-five workers and executives at the plant met with Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergymen and discussed group problems.

The program was evaluated by the Bureau of Applied Social Research, affiliated with Columbia University. Dwight E. G. Palmer, president of the corporation, said that the program had proved helpful in breaking down prejudices.

"The results to date indicate that all segments of our plant personnel are convinced of the desirability of carrying forward the broadening influence of this program," Mr. Palmer said. "The better understanding and respect for each other's rights which have come about through a formal conference, recognizing the existence of issues and bringing them to light, have broken through the hard surface veneer which remains in any organization no matter how energetic or sincere the efforts of management may have been to break down the last hurdle of prejudices."

Says Communists Fail With United States Jews

The House Committee on Un-American Activities, at two public sessions in Washington, D.C., provided witnesses for minority groups with a forum on which to defend their patriotism and declare that Communist drives to dominate them had failed.

Rabbi Benjamin Schulte of New York, executive director of the American Jewish League Against Communism, Inc., charged that there was "a deliberate Communist conspiracy to inflame religious and racial minorities" not only against the United States but against one another.

"The ultimate aim," the rabbi said, "is to throw this land into confusion, paving the way for Stalinist revolution and conquest" in line with a "technique outlined" by Lenin, according to the New York Times.

Anti-American propaganda featuring Russia's supposed backing of the Jewish position on the Palestine question, Rabbi Schulte told the committee, "failed miserably."

"Americans of Jewish faith remain anti-Communist," he continued. "Therefore the Soviet line changed abruptly about one year ago." It became "anti-Zionist and even anti-Semitic," he asserted.

Rabbi Schulte cited cases which he described as Communist efforts to set minorities against one another which had developed in New York, Detroit, Los Angeles, and at other points. He added:

"We Jews have suffered from discrimination for centuries. We have enough real trouble without having the Communists create trouble for us where it does not exist, or having them imagine troubles for us. The one sure thing about America today is that, through the democratic process, we are being freed from this."

"I am confident," he also said, "that no American and no true liberal will allow himself to be used for an international conspiracy which, if successful in the United States, would abolish the American way of life and substitute a slavery unparalleled in world history, signifying tragedy and death to Jews, Protestants, Catholics, whites, Negroes and all freedom-loving men on this continent."

Influx To Israel Recedes

The great wave of Jewish immigration to Israel, which reached a peak in March, is now receding rapidly, according to Kenneth Bilby, writing from Tel Aviv to the New York Herald Tribune.

There were 150,000 newcomers in the first half of this year, but there probably will be not more than 75,000 in the six-month period now begun.

Figures obtained from the Israeli government and from Jewish Agency sources showed the extent the immigration declined. In March there were 30,500 immigrants; in May 23,200; in June 16,400. Jewish Agency leaders say there will be about 14,000 this month and 12,000 in August. By September the monthly total is expected to level off at 10,000.

There are various reasons for the reduction, which had not been anticipated. Several important immigration sources in Eastern and Central Europe are drying up. The last of the displaced persons camps in Europe will be liquidated in September. Almost all of the Bulgarian Jews have immigrated to Israel.

Russian hostility to Zionism has finally caught up with Jewish migration from Eastern Europe. There are 350,000 Jews still in Rumania and 170,000 in Hungary. Although diplomatic conversations are now under way, hope for their release is slight.

Some potential immigrants have been discouraged by reports of austerity living in Israel. From the United States, for example, not more than 1,000 Jews have moved to Israel in the last year, and the totals for Great Britain and South Africa have been similarly small.

As a result, according to Dr. Israel Goldstein, the treasurer of the Jewish Agency, the next immigration wave will be dominantly Oriental, rather than European. The gates are still open in North Africa, Turkey, and Yaman, and from those regions will come the bulk of the 75,000 expected before the year ends.

Government sources emphasized that the immigration decline is not

500 In Israel Ask "Bread And Work"

Five hundred unemployed immigrants living in abandoned Arab homes in Ramleh squatted outside the offices of the Government Labor Ministry, demonstrating for "work and bread." Fourteen trucks brought the unemployed from Ramleh to Tel Aviv. They motored first to the building of the Knesset, but the Parliament was not in session. They then continued to the Labor Ministry.

When the police said that they would allow only a small delegation to enter the grounds of the Government buildings, the mob swarmed across the barrier, reports the New York Times. Some demonstrators tried to disarm policemen, and many were hurt in the scuffle. Senior police officers ordered restraint, and no effort was made forcibly to eject the demonstrators.

The truck drivers were detained for interrogation and later released. Sources close to the Government said that the Communists had provided the transportation but party leaders denied this.

About 8,000 Jewish immigrants were housed by the Jewish Agency in homes evacuated by the refugees Arabs and in tents in the former all-Arab city of Ramleh, which the Israeli Army captured a year ago, directly after the first truce. The menfolk have worked irregularly, harvesting the citrus crop and repairing roads. The Government Welfare Ministry supplied some relief and fed school children but their measures admittedly have been inadequate.

Electric power is not yet fully restored in Ramleh, and this has impeded industrial revival.

Labor Ministry officials who met the immigrants said that the influx would ease off quickly. It was noted that the program had ended last week and that a new program was being held up. Officials said that a large number of the unemployed would be sent out on public works projects next week.

A.J.C. Calls Bias Handicap To U.S.

Endorsing the proposed Civil Rights Act of 1949, the American Jewish Committee called for expansion of civil rights in a statement submitted to Senate and House sub-committees of the Judiciary Committee.

The AJC memorandum particularly endorsed provisions for the creation of a permanent Civil Rights Commission and a Joint Congressional Committee on Civil Rights. It urged, however, that the Civil Rights Commission be empowered to hold public hearings, subpoena witnesses, administer oaths and otherwise gather evidence.

Supporting reorganization of the civil rights activities of the Department of Justice, the AJC called for full divisional status for the civil rights section. It also recommended strengthening and modernizing existing civil rights statutes, including the Anti-Boycott Act.

In addition, it stressed the need for statutes to safeguard the right of political participation in Federal primaries and elections. The statement added:

"The American Jewish Committee has repeatedly opposed discrimination and segregation based on race, religion, color or national origin."

"We believe that segregation is an archaic remnant of a period of enlightenment and ignorance and is always discriminatory."

"We believe that segregation imposes a badge of inferiority just as clearly as did the infamous Nuremberg laws of the Nazi regime."

"We believe that segregation in all forms and at all levels is a denial of the high ideals and principles on which our Republic was founded."

"We believe that segregation, as practiced in many areas of American life, is a substantial handicap to our country in its foreign relations, and we urge Congress to eliminate this practice in all areas where it has power to do so."

a result of Israeli government policy and has not developed from any quota system. Nevertheless, it will provide Israel with a much-needed breathing spell. Dr. Goldstein said 60,000 immigrants now in reception camps, mostly in tents, will leave those places in the fall. Un-

Efforts To Get Covenant On Rights Go On

Despite defeat of the move to implement international machinery for protection of basic rights by according the right of petition to individuals and groups, efforts to secure an effective International Covenant of Human Rights are continuing without relaxation.

The Consultative Council of Jewish Organizations, composed of the American Jewish Committee, the Anglo-Jewish Association of Great Britain and the Alliance Israelite Universelle of France, carried on an intensive campaign to put teeth into the Covenant while the UN Commission of Human Rights was in session at Lake Success during June.

Although the setback left the entire question of implementation open, proponents of the measure are nevertheless emboldened by the fact that their cause has made progress. The principle of the right of individual and group petitions, which is fundamental to effective implementation of human rights, lost out by a tie vote of 8 to 8, with the U.S., England and the USSR among those voting against the measure. The blow thus suffered by supporters of the international protection of human rights was tempered by consideration of the fact that the idea of individual and group petitions could not have mustered more than a handful of votes a year ago.

Moreover, before adjourning the Human Rights Commission adopted a resolution calling on the Economic and Social Council to request the Secretary General to prepare a study of the entire question of the right of individual petitions.

In large part, the change in sentiment reflects to the credit of the CCJO, which was represented by its secretary, Moses Moskowitz, at all sessions of the Commission. The CCJO's memorandum on implementation, the most comprehensive report on the subject to date, was the subject of considerable laudatory comment both by members of the Commission and non-governmental organizations accredited to the UN Economic and Social Council. The CCJO's views on the functions of the Sub-Commission on Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities likewise was regarded as a permanent contribution in this very important and complex field.

With the Commission hoping to conclude its draft of the Covenant and implementation in time for action by the UN General Assem-

Brodetsky Is New Head Of Hebrew U.

At the first meeting of the board of governors of the Hebrew University since the creation of the state of Israel, new officers were elected who will now undertake the task of guiding the University in its key role in the new Jewish state.

Professor Selig Brodetsky was elected president of the University to fill the post made vacant by the death of Dr. Judah L. Magnes. Professor Brodetsky has been deputy chairman of the board of governors of the University. He is emeritus professor of mathematics at the University of Leeds, England. A member of the executive of the Jewish Agency since 1928, he has also been president of the board of Deputies of British Jews since 1940.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann offered his resignation as chairman of the board of governors because of the press of his duties as president of the state of Israel. The resignation was regrettably accepted and Dr. Weizmann was elected honorary president of the University.

Dr. David Werner Senator, administrator of the University since 1937, was elected executive vice-president. Dr. Senator, who visited the United States last year, was chairman of the University's wartime executive committee. In that post he was responsible for directing the many important services which the University rendered to the Allied war effort. His election to this newly created post comes also in recognition of the leading part which he has played in planning for the expansion of the University during the coming decade.

Sir Leon Simon, formerly chairman of the executive council, was elected chairman of the board of governors. After a long and distinguished career in the British Civil Service, Sir Leon was appointed a member of a Commission to survey and report on Jewish education in Palestine. This work, conducted in 1945, enabled him to become thoroughly conversant with the educational problems there. In 1946 he took up his post on the executive council of the University.

The board of governors set the next meeting for April 1, 1950, in Jerusalem. This date marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the opening of the University.

bly in 1950, the CCJO is mustering all its forces to further popular

Fromm and Cantor Nathan Mendelson. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white Chantilly lace gown, over white Duchesse satin, designed with a bertha collar of Chantilly lace, cut with a low neckline; and full bouffant skirt, with a floating front panel over three net underskirts; and a tightly-fitted bodice, with long, tightly-fitted, pointed sleeves. (Continued from Page One)

The school, an Orthodox Talmudic center for training rabbis who have "a taste for rural atmosphere" and who want to serve in farm areas, was operated at Nitra, Czechoslovakia, before the war. Many of the present students were said to have been imprisoned and branded by the Nazis. Rabbi Michael R. Weissmandl, an official of the old school, is dean of the new establishment.

Under the revised decision of the zoning board, Yeshiva is permitted to use 85.4 acres of the estate for seminary purposes, instead of the forty specified earlier.

The original decision had restrained the school from selling its farm products. The new decision allows it to exchange surplus products for other items. Instead of the twelve cows and 300 chickens hitherto allowed, the revised order permits the school to possess twenty-five cows and 3,000 chickens.

The rabbi explained in an affidavit that while the population of the place would be 160 and that two chickens to a person ordinarily might be sufficient, the acquisition of baby chicks was seasonal and twenty for each person might be needed each spring.

The revised decision, while refusing permission for a vocational school, allows the seminary to operate printing presses for instructional purposes and for school printing.

 A method of teaching displaced persons and other new Americans the English language by an ingenious combination of mechanical devices and educational short-cuts was demonstrated at the Office of Education in Washington.

CLASS IN COOKERY

CHOCOLATE CAKE

one and one-half cups sifted pastry flour or one and one-third cups sifted hard wheat flour two teaspoons baking powder one-quarter teaspoon baking soda
 one-quarter teaspoon salt

one cup brown sugar, lightly packed two eggs, well beaten
 one-third cup dry cocoa one-third cup nearly boiling water one-half cup sour cream or buttermilk
 one teaspoon vanilla

Measure and sift together three times flour, baking powder, seven tablespoons shortening or mixture of shortening and butter, and salt. Cream shortening and blend in brown sugar. Add beaten eggs a little at a time, beating well after each addition. Add water to dry cocoa gradually, and blend until smooth. Add this to creamed mixture. Combine vanilla and sour cream, add dry ingredients to the creamed mixture alternately with the flavored sour cream. Mix all well. Turn into a buttered nine-inch-square cake pan. Bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, for about forty-five minutes.

Icing:

four tablespoons butter one and one-half cups four tablespoons orange juice icing sugar three tablespoons dry cocoa

Mix icing sugar, butter, and cocoa in the strained orange juice, in top of double boiler. Stir until all is well blended. Remove from fire. Cool slightly, add pinch of salt, and grated rind of one orange. Beat until smooth and firm enough to spread on cake.

Mrs. D. Bossin,

577 Vaughan Road, Toronto.

ALMOND TORTE

eight eggs one teaspoon vanilla
 one cup sugar one-half teaspoon cream of tartar one-half pound ground almonds one teaspoon almond extract
 one-quarter teaspoon salt

Beat egg yolks until light; add one-half of the sugar, and beat well; add ground almonds, and cream of tartar. Beat egg whites and add sugar gradually, and beat until stiff. Add to first mixture, folding carefully. Pour into an angel-food tin, which has been very lightly greased on bottom, sides, and around funnel, so that cake will not break when it is removed from pan. Bake in a 325-degree oven for one hour. Remove from oven, and invert pan immediately on cake-rack. Allow to cool thoroughly before removing cake from pan.

4338 Draper Avenue, Montreal.

Friday, July 29, at 7.58 p.m., D.S.T.

spending this year at Harvard University with Prof. I. A. Richards working out the new system on Rockefeller research fellowships.

They explained that England had found a difficult displaced-persons problem on her hands when it became necessary to teach some 50,000 Poles enough English in six weeks to enable them to go down into the coal mines in safety.

Mr. Tudhope said that from an educational point of view the two secrets to the speed-up process were:

1. Limit the vocabulary. The 850 words of Professor Richards' Basic English are used as an introduction to full English. "Almost without teaching they will move out into full English," he said.

2. Limit the sentence structure. For example, he said, use "I gave the book to him," a direct sequence which can be acted out, not "If gave him the book," which is complicated and confusing.

No grammar is taught, Professor Richards said, and no translation is done. The plunge into English is made with, "this is I; that is you," with no intervention of other languages. If two Spanish-speaking boys are whispering together in Spanish, they are moved apart.

Miss Burke said that she, like many other English people, had been prejudiced against Basic English until she had been impressed by its great value in teaching those of other tongues to speak, read and write in English.

"It may be hard for the teacher to keep within the 850 words, but the frustration is all your own — it is easy for the learner to have to manipulate only a few," she said.

Actual teaching is done through two simple and familiar gadgets, synchronized. These are the phonograph, which the demonstrators called gramophone, and the film strip.

On the screen is flashed page 14 of the Basic English text, a twenty-five cent pocket book, and the phonograph announces "page fourteen." The phonograph reads the picture-captions for that page: "His hat is on the table. He will take his hat off the table." There is a slight pause in the recording for the class to read in unison: "His hat is on the table. He will take his hat off the table." When the class is over, groups take turns going through the same routine; or individuals can go off in a corner and keep on teaching themselves.

One of the great advantages claimed for this system of teaching is its low cost. The demonstrators said $40 of equipment would do the job.

Cuts and burns that occur at the office or factory should always be sterilized immediately and covered with a clean dressing otherwise they might become infected and cause considerable trouble. First-aid kits should be maintained at every place of business to meet these minor emergencies and competent workers should be trained in their proper use. Many minor injuries also occur in the home and a small first-aid kit should be available there in case of need.

other go through a period of cheating, lying or stealing. But they throw it off soon like a mild case of the measles. With others the trouble seems to last and they become known as "delinquents." It is now believed that punishment alone will not cure delinquency. Understanding, sympathy and a feeling of being loved and needed are necessary to a child's development. Delinquency in Canada is a problem requiring study and understanding. A happy home life is often a safeguard against this trouble.

CANADIAN Association for Labor Palestine annual campaign will begin on January 17, 1949, and continue until February 28, it was announced by Abe Shurem, executive director.

MONTREAL HEBREW OLD People's and Sheltering Home: A community has no greater obligation than the care of its aged. Elie Schneiderman, president of the Montreal Hebrew Old People's and Sheltering Home, said in his recent annual report on the Home, which is an agency of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, and is supported by the Combined Jewish Appeal. "Home is a place where the individual finds loving care, security, and freedom from the troubles of the outside world," he told the annual meeting, "and this is what we have endeavored to provide at our home for the aged during the past twenty-one years." Mr. Schneiderman told the meeting that changing economic conditions have brought about changes in the character of the home. It is no longer a shelter for the needy poor, he said, but rather a community resource, providing dignified living and protective environment, regardless of economic status, to those who can no longer live in the community. Physical improvements in the building on Esplanade Avenue during the past year include the installation of a new heating plant and hot water system as well as residential accommodation for the staff. The report also told of the addition to the medical staff of Dr. Isidore Leibling. He will have the assistance of the medical board of twelve physicians under the chairmanship of Dr. H. A. Sinclair. Mr. Schneiderman made special mention of effective co-operation of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies and the Family Welfare Department of the Baron de Hirsch Institute. E. Schneiderman was elected president; others: A. Cohen, M. Schneiderman, Solomon Vineberg, S. Moskowitz, K.C.; B. Levitt; board members: L. Berlin, D. Cohen, N. Goldblatt, D. Jonefsky, M. Levy, M. Litvack, M. Melnick, H. Roseman, Dr. H. A. Sinclair, S. Steinberg.

COMBINED JEWISH Appeal, Young Women's Section, met at the home of Mrs. David Jacobs, 4985 Circle Road, 1948 campaign chairman of the Women's Division of the Appeal. Workers and captains, headed by Mrs. Edgar Wener, discussed organization prior to the November campaign. The new branch will canvass "young marrieds" and "young business women" and is the sister branch of the Young Businessmen's Division. William W. Solkin, assistant director of the Appeal, spoke on responsibility at home and overseas.

ZIONIST Organization: Edward Schachter, 753 Stuart Avenue, sent a money order for $23.28 representing a full week's pay-check to the United Israel Appeal. Prior to his coming to Canada, he was an inmate of a Displaced Persons camp in Germany, and now resides with Mr. and Mrs. S. Weitzman.

IN MEMORIAM

MARGOLIS: In loving memory of a dear, beloved husband and father, Harry Margolis, who passed away 28th day of Tammuz, July 13, 1942.

When the evening shadows are falling, and I'm sitting all alone,
In my heart there is a longing, if only you could come home.
Now and forever, my thoughts still wander, to the grave so far away,
Where they laid my beloved husband, seven years ago today.
Ever in our memory, sadly missed and dearly beloved, by his wife, Katie; and son, Gerald.

The synagogue was decorated with ferns and Miss Clara Klein sang "Because" during the ceremony. Mrs. Parker, mother of the bride, wore a blue Chantilly lace gown, with a V-shaped neckline, the skirt falling into a soft drape in the front, and a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Garaway, mother of the groom, wore a black lace dress, having a V-shaped neckline and a straight cut skirt, and a corsage of red and white roses. The honeymoon was spent at the Chalet, in St. Agathe, Quebec, the bride travelling in a light blue gabardine summer suit, with navy-blue accessories. They have taken up residence in Fort Erie, Ont.

"We want our campers to learn," Mr. Shriar said, "and they do not have to build model log cabins walked against model Indians by a model stockade - unless they want to. The campers will explore the city under the supervision of seventeen college trained counselors, trekking from old Bonsecours Market to the modern buildings of l'Universite de Montreal. They may not find Indian arrowheads, but they will learn about our city."

In the early days, the vote on Vancouver Island was limited to those holding 20 or more acres of land. In the celebrated Nanaimo election of 1859, the candidate was Capt. John Swanson—and Capt. Charles Stuart was the only qualified voter! Swanson was duly elected by a majority of one, causing the "Colonist" to remark, "This caps the climax of all elections that were ever heard of."

In contrast to the controversy which this state of affairs caused, there is remarkable unanimity among connoisseurs over the palatable quality of Harwood's Canadian Rye Whisky. Mellow, smooth and aged in the wood, Harwood's today is, indeed, Canada's finest!

Stabilizing The Jewish Communities Abroad

By Zachariah Shuster, Yiddish Journalist And American Jewish Committee Representative Abroad

For the Jewish visitor, Paris has many special attractions. There are quite a number of well-attended synagogues, a network of social institutions, three Yiddish dailies, and several well-appointed restaurants. Some of the latter are right in the shadow of the Arc de Triomphe, with poisson farci (to you gefuelle fish) on the daily menu. There are also two Jewish nightclubs and a musical revue.

The Jewish community of France, which numbers approximately 225,000 and is the largest in Western Europe, is becoming relatively stabilized. The chaos and dependence of the first post-war years are gradually making place for a desire to find roots and independence. This is expressed, for example, in the movement now under way to organize a United Jewish Appeal which would help support Jewish institutions throughout France.

This movement, partly stimulated and guided by JDC, is paralleled by stirrings among small groups of sensitive Jewish leaders with regard to developing a more intense cultural life and creating the proper means of expression. With respect to the latter, the American Jewish Committee Paris office embarked recently upon the publication of a monthly revue, Evidences, which strives to disseminate, both among Jews and non-Jews, creative ideas about Jewish contemporary life and Jewish values and traditions. It should be noted that there is no serious periodical like it on the whole of the European continent.

However, it must be emphasized that the process of organization and integration of Jews in France and other European countries is slow and difficult. There are still about 60,000 Jews in DP camps in Germany and Austria whose number only recently has been augmented by new arrivals from Hungary and Rumania. Many who came to France and Belgium after the war are still undecided where to make their permanent homes. Communities like those in Holland and Belgium with a glorious past do not find it easy to resume life with decimated numbers.

From the AJC observation point in Paris, we are in a position to follow the particular problems of each one of those communities. Take Belgium, for instance. There you have about 40,000 Jews divided into three distinct elements — so-called natives and citizens who are a minority, then a substantial number of Eastern European immigrants who arrived there during the last three or four decades and who were instrumental in building up the large diamond industry in Antwerp, and lastly you have recent arrivals from DP camps, post-war Poland and other Eastern European countries.

Unfortunately, there is little cohesion among the first and the other two groups. Then there is a special problem of permits to work and to engage in commerce and the professions. Most Belgian Jews are non-citizens and constantly have to renew their permits for any gainful activity. This in turn depends on the changing policies of the administration. Right now Belgium is undergoing an economic crisis and unemployment. This is accompanied by ill-will against non-citizens. The result is that many thousands of Jews are not allowed to work or don't know when their right to work will be stopped.

Belgium is also an intensely Catholic country. Recently some of the large Catholic newspapers began an anti-Semitic campaign on the ground of alleged desecration of Christian holy places in Israel. However, the Jewish community there thus far has been unable to organize itself properly for its defense.

Similar problems exist in France. Here, too, the gap between the native Jews and the Eastern Europeans is far from bridged. Here, too, the community has not developed the proper cohesive forces. The problem of the relationship between Israel and the Jews living in other countries is also occupying many minds.

Another European problem, which we not only see from our observation point but are occupied with daily, concerns restitution of heirless Jewish communities. Satisfactory solution were reached in Greece and in the US and British zones in Germany. Only a few weeks ago marked progress was made in Holland. On the other hand, great resistance is encountered in Austria, where the Jewish community is still deprived of benefitting from the large amounts of property deposited by the Nazis.

The overall picture, however, is one of relative stabilization. Assuming that general conditions in Europe will not undergo violent authorized the publication, but agreed to underwrite the printing, production and publication costs of fifty sets. The JDC then underwrote the printing of 1,000 additional sets. The dedication of the new Talmud is to the United States Army.

U. S. ARMY

In their plea for publication, the DP rabbis pointed out that during the Nazi terror Hitler systematically destroyed Jewish books of learning, and in particular had stripped Germany and other occupied areas of the Talmud. At the time of their plea practically none of the various religious seminaries and rabbis present in Germany possessed full editions of the Talmud for study.

With each volume measuring 11 changes in the near future, lively Jewish communities will exist in all of Western Europe, with the exception perhaps of Germany, which is a problem in itself. For a long time these communities will need help from American Jewry, not so much in the sense of simple relief as in stimulation, guidance, intellectual and cultural support, and also in the field of developing proper relationships with the non-Jewish world.

This may not sound very dramatic. But it reaches to the core of the problem of whether the remaining Jews of Europe shall be a floating, disorganized mass or resume the normal life of integrated citizens, while at the same time developing their communal bodies on foundations developed through centuries.

by 16 inches, and numbering 500 pages, the new Talmud is the 52nd edition to be printed, and is modeled after the world-famous "Vilna Shas" generally considered the best edited publication of the Talmud. The entire edition of 1,050 sets of the 16 volumes "Talmud of the Shearith Hapletah," is scheduled to be ready by the end of 1949. Eight volumes have already come off the presses at Heidelberg. The final volume will contain articles by Dr. Joseph J. Schwartz, chairman of JDC's European Executive Council, and Rabbis Bernstein and Shapiro.

A copy of the first published volume of the new Talmud, the "Sabbath Tractate," has already been presented to General Lucius B. Clay, who succeeded General McNarney as U.S. Military Governor for Germany, and who facilitated the actual publication.

Before he returned to the United States, Rabbi Shapiro spent six weeks in Israel on behalf of the JDC, and with Rabbi Snieg presented a second copy of the Sabbath Tractate to Dr. Chaim Weizmann at the Israeli President's home in Rehovoth, "in the name of the thousands of Jews in German DP camps still waiting to go to Israel." The youthful Rabbi declared, "Dr. Weizmann said to me: 'On behalf of the people of Israel I want to thank those who made this Talmud possible — above all the American Army and the JDC.'"

During his stay in Israel, Rabbi Shapiro visited about a dozen of the 20 reception centers which had been set up by the Israeli Government for the new arrivals whom JDC was bringing each day by ship and by plane from Europe.

Asia, and North Africa. Everywhere, the Rabbi said, he met former DP's, men and women whom he had known in Germany.

A member of a distinguished rabbinical family, Rabbi Shapiro is a graduate of Yeshiva University in New York, and of the Cleveland Rabbinical Seminary. Born in Rumania in 1916, the young rabbi won two battle stars during World War II as a U.S. Army chaplain in the Pacific area, where he saw action on the island of Iwo Jima and elsewhere. After the war, Rabbi Shapiro served for a time as Jewish chaplain for the U. S. Military Academy at West Point. During his service with the Army and JDC, he has been on leave from his post as Rabbi of the Jewish Center of Violet Park in the Bronx. He was formerly secretary of the Bronx Council of Rabbis.

INFLUX

employment will thus be reduced. "This will give us an opportunity to digest things a little more thoroughly," Dr. Goldstein said.

It was learned that Jewish Agency and Israeli authorities have approached the International Refugee Organization with a request for $9,000,000 to rehabilitate the "hard core" of German victims of the Nazis. Still in Germany are 1,500 of the worst sufferers from Nazi rule—mentally ill, tubercular, maimed and aged cases. It will be necessary to erect special institutions in Israel for their care, and Israel wants from the J. R. O. $3,000,000 annually for three years. This sum would be exclusive of the cost of buildings.

In addition, the Jewish Agency is pressing for $150,000,000 dollars in German indemnification for property losses of Jews. There are now pending 25,000 claims of German Jews, according to Dr. Goldstein, who recently returned from a European tour. Of these, 800 already have been settled in direct negotiations between Jews and the German nationals involved.

It now is hoped, Dr. Goldstein said, that housing will be available for all immigrants by the end of the year. By that time, he said, the housing begun two months ago by the Amidar housing corporation will have sufficient units available to accommodate 100,000 immigrants.

EFFORTS

education of the need for the observance of human rights. To this end it is utilizing the facilities of the constituent organizations.

Addressing the Human Rights Commission, Mr. Moskowitz urged the establishment of permanent central and regional commissions composed of independent persons to act on violations of human rights after complaints by states, individuals, groups or qualified non-governmental organizations. The aim of these commissions, he continued, should be "conciliation and persuasion," rather than "compulsion and punishment." He emphasized that "the right of individuals to initiate procedures by way of petition is recognized not only in domestic legislation in many parts of the world, but is also founded on important historical precedents in international diplomacy and international organization."
